Speech of Hon. Archibald Dixon, Delivered at Paducah, ky., Saturday, March 9th, 1861.

[concluden.] The Territories, New Mexico, Utah, Arizona and the rest, have only to become States and secedeto become entitled to all the lauds ansold within their limits. And by this process, Kentucky, that now hus an interest in millions of acres of the public lands, will lose her 'right to every toot of them. So that when Kentucky secedes, it will not be a question with her people as to what interest they may have had in the public lands. interest they may have had in the public lands while she was a member of the Union, for, whatever that interest may have been, it will be lost to them forever. But after the seceding States have gotten fairly out of the Union, what sort of government will they form, and how will they form it? Is it to be formed by the suffrages of the or any provision in the Constitution by which now governed. Those who made the Constitution were a self-created body. They made the Constitution, appointed n President and Vice President and have proceeded to pass such laws affecting the great interests of the people as they have thought proper to pass, without in any way consulting or inquiring of them whether they de-sired to have them passed or not. It is true the Constitution is to continue only u year, and the President and Vice President are to continue in office only a year—but could not the same power that made the Constitution to last only n year, have made it to last a bundred years? and could not the same power that appointed General Davis and Mr. Stevens for only a year, have appointed them President and Vice President for life? Nay, could they not have made Mr. Davis king, and Mr. Stevens his successor, without even so as cousiling the people who are to be enslaved by them? There is an old maxim that "power is forever stealing from the many to the Tew." Could there be a better illustration of its truth than in the ease of this new Provisional Government, as it is called? Without regarding the wishes of the people, the Constitution of the United States has been abundoned, citizens of the United States have been deprived of their right of citizenship, State Constitutions have been subverted and all the guarantees which they threw around life, liberty und property, usurged and trampled on hy this revo-lutionary Convention: while the people them-selves, maddened by the excitement of the times, and unable to determine how to protect theu-selves, have been bound hund and foot and dragged to the altar as victims, under the hypocritical pretense that their sacrifice was necessary to the preservation of free principles and the cause of free governments. Shades of Washington, of Patrick Henry, of Jefferson, of Adams and of Madison! is this to be the consummation of all your toils, of all your sacrifices, of all your labors to estubiish a government upon such enduring printo be a constructed on and equality, as that the down-ciples of treedom and equality, as that the down-trodden and oppressed of every nation might find a home and refuge under it? Are all the bopes of the American people, of the friends of freedom throughout the world, bound up as they are in the perpetuation of the free government of America, and the American Union, to be turned to Dend Sen fruits? Are they to be golden to the vision, but asbes to the lips? Foroid it, Almighty God! For my part, I would rather die a thousand deaths in defense of constitutional liberty than live through containes a miserable slave, to defend the dogmas of despotic power!

But after their Provisional Government expires, what will be the provisions of the government of the Southern Confederacy if such a Confederacy should be formed? What will be the rights and powers of each State? Will each State have the right to seede wheaever she gets tired of remaining in the new Confederacy? And if so, how long will the Confederacy hang together after it is Will not the first real or imaginary wroug dono by the central Government, to either one of the States, be a sufficient cause for the with one of the States, be a sufficient cause for the with-drawal of such State? If Kentucky should se-cede and joia such a Confederacy, would she be willing to re-open the African slave trade? Would Virginia, Delaware. Tennessee, North Carolina or Missouri be willing that it should be done? And if it were done would not each of them secede from the Confederace? And if not done would not the Confederacy? And if not done, would not South Carolina and some other cotton States, who South Carolina and some other cotton States, who desire it, refuse to have any further connection with the Government that denied them this right? South Carolina wants direct taxation and free trade; would Kentneky ever submit to such a policy? Would sho not second from the new Confeders? Would sho not second from the new Confeders of the confe isiana give up the great advantages she derives from the duries on foreign sugar, and the protec-tion it affords to a great and numerous class of her citizen planters? She could not do so without absolute ruin to them-would the Southern Confederacy guarantee to the people of Kentucky the forming such Confederacy? Or would the States forming it ever consent to such a provision in the Pederal Constitution? And without such a provision, what would prevent each from passing a law to prevent the other States from moving their shave property to them? Those are all important of the states are fully states and the states are fully stat questions and should be settled satisfactorily the people of Kentucky, before breaking up that overnment and separating themselves fro the Frderal Union, and before committing their olitical fortunes, and all that is deur to them, to the stormy and tempestuous deep of revolution.

I have shown that, so fur as the present territories are concerned, the whole question, as to whether they shall come into the l'nion as States, and with or without slavery as their Constitutions may determine, has been settled by the compromise measures of 1850 and 1854; and that these measures are still unrepealed and in full force. The real contest, then, so far us the territories are concorned, is not so much about those now belonging to the Government, as those to be hereafter acquired; and, in his opinion, the ubsurdity of such n coutest is illustrated by the quarrel between the three travelers is illustrated by the quarrel between the three travelers nbout their respective shares of a big of money which they had not, but hoped to find before reaching the end of their journey. The lands which constitute the subject of this controversy, and which are hereafter to be acquired, are Mexico, Ccatrul America and Cuba. How are they to be acquired by a Southern Confederacy Is it to be done by purchase or by conquest? and Is it to be done by purenase or by conquest? and if by purehase, where is the money to come from? And if the meney can be ruised, to whom will they belong after they are purchased? Let us take Cuba as an example. She will not cost less than $200,000,000, and being purchased, is she to be a province of the Confederacy, or udmitted as a State, upon terms of equality with the rest of the States? and if so, will she not have the same self when she gets tired of the Confederacy? Is and illegal uction? Will they not treat it as a she to pay hack the $200,000,000, when she goes out, to the States that bought her? And if this principle be correct, ought not Louisiana and other seceding States to pay back with interest the respective snurs paid by the United States for their purchase? The same principle would npply to territories purchased of Mexico and the Central American States. As soonas they would be formed into States they could be seen to the contral states. ed into States they could seeede, if they thought proper to do so, and they cortainly would think proper to do so, unless things went exactly to suit them. But if Caba, Central America und Mexico are to be acquired by conquest, are they to be admitted as States, or are they to be held as conquered provinces? and if admitted as States, could majority of the sume Legislature, under the contheir right to secede from the new Confederacy trol of the non-slavebolders, could enll a State ght to secode from the new Confederacy be the subject of doubt or controversy? And if Convention and do the same thing. Or, if the they are to be held as conquered provinces, would preferred, repeal so much of the State Constitute of the same thing. not be the most deadly hatred between the people of such provinces and the States that conquered them? Would not wars be the consequence of such batred, heree, unrelenting, bloody, and unsparing? But, when all this is accomplished.

That if a baro majority of the people of a State could overturn the State Constitution, against its forms, a majority of the people of the people of the people of the state of the people of What compensation is she to get for the loss of the Union, the Federal Constitution and the great and mighty interests she has as an integral member of this great and glorious Republic? Will she have ucquired any new guarantees for slave property? any right to the territories of the United States which she has not now under the Federal without compass. This, with me, is a vital question. The people of the different States formed the present Government of the United States. They voted Covernment of the United States. They voted in some form either for or against it. But the Montgomery, Alabama, who formed it? Not the slave and some to the free States? Thousands people, for they were never even consulted about the slave and some to the free States? Thousands would cross to the other side of the river in a single provision in the Constitution, by which, the light provision in the Constitution, by which, the light provision in the Constitution, by which, the light provision in the Constitution by which the state and with arms in their hands, furnishgle night, and with arms in their hands, furnish ed them by our Republican eaemies, become the bitterest and most deadly of our assailants—whilst such as remained would be sent as speedily na possible to the latter States to prevent their escape to the free States; and Keutucky would thus become at once depopulated of her slaves. And who would supply their places? For Kentucky without her slave labor must have free labor to supply its place. And who would be the free la-borers? Would they not be composed of Yankee Abolitionists, and Black Republicans of Massachusetts and other northern States, that Kentucky iutes and detests from her inmost soul? such people would she not be voted out of the South rn Confederacy, and placed back again in the Cen tederacy of free States? But at this point we are teld thut the Southern Confederacy will form an ulliance with Great Britain and other powers to protect slavery. Cau any man be so weak and so simple as to entertain even a hope that such an alliance will ever be formed, and for such a pur-lose? An alliance with England to protect sluve-y! England, thut will not suffer an American ave to be touched by an American mester after has once set foot on British seil! Eagland, England, whose that the moment a slave sets his toot on British earth, the ground on which he treads is holy and consecrated by the genius of universal emancipation! Can it be supposed that this beast, whether uttered in a spirit of sincerity and truth, or ony for effect on the people of other nations, is to be surrendered to protect the slaveholder of the outh? It will never be done, and it Kentucky is to depend upon such an alliance as this for pro-ection, it will be but a broken reed, on which her hope must bleed and her peace expire. What then is the true policy of Kentucky? It is to stand by the Federal Union, to battle for it, and to put forth all her strength, intellectually and thresholds in its defendant. hysically, in its defense, and in defense of the edoral Constitution. In the doing of this should contain her own bonor, her own greatness, and her true glory. I have said on a former occasion that Kentucky in assisting to dissolve the uion to protect slavery, would puther own knife o its throat. That whilst the Federal Constituion was respected, and the State Constitution with its provisions regarded, the institution o lavery would be upheld and protected. noment they were broken and subverted, the insti ntion of slavery, like everything else, would drift away upon the shoreless sea of revolution. And that such would be the euse, no one at all conversant with the subject could for a moment doubt. But if Kentucky should determine in favor of seders of the day.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, s a constitutional disease, a corruption of the ood, by which this fluid becomes vitiated, weak, and poor. Being in the circulation, it pervades the whole body, and may burst out in disease on any part of it. No organ is free from its attacks, nor is there one which it may not destroy. The scrofulous taint is variously caused by mercurial disease, low living, dis-ordered or unhealthy food, impure air, filth and filthy habits, the depressing vices, and, above all, by the venereal infection. Whatever be its origin, it is hereditary in the constitution, descending "from parents to children unto the third and fourth generation;" indeed, it seems to be the rod of Him who says, "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children."

Its effects commence by deposition from the blood of corrupt or ulcerous matter, which, in the lungs, liver, and internal organs, is termed tubercles; in the glands, swellings; the surface, eruptions or sores. This foul corruption, which genders in the blood, depresses the energies of life, so that scrofulous constitutions not only suffer from scrofulous com-plaints, but they have far less power to withstand the attacks of other diseases; consequently, vast numbers perish by disorders which, although not scrofulous in their nature, are still rendered fatal by this taint in the system. Most of the consumption which decimates the human family has its origin directly in this serofulous contamination; and many destructive diseases of the liver, kidneys, brain, and, indeed, of all the organs, arise from or are aggravated by the same cause.

One quarter of all our people are scrofulous; their persons are invaded by this lurking infection, and their health is undermined by it. To cleanse it from the system we must renovate the blood by un alterative medicine, and invigorate it by healthy food and exercise. Such a medicine we supply in

AYER'S

Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla, the most effectual remedy which the medical skill of our times can devise for this every where prevailing and fatal malady. It is combined from the most active remedials that have been discovered for the expurgation of this foul disorder from the blood, and the rescue of the system from its destructive consequences. Hence it should be employed for the cure of not only scrofula, but also those other affections which arise from it, such as Enurrive and Shin Diseases, Sr. Anthony's Fire, Rose, or Erystpelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Blains and Boils, Tunors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Rinowonm, Rheumatism, Syphilitic and Mencurial Dis-EASES, DROPSY, DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, and, indeed, ALL COMPLAINTS ARISING FROM VITIA-TED ON IMPURE BLOOD. The popular belief in "impurity of the blood" is founded in truth, for scrofula is a degeneration of the blood. The particular purpose and virtue of this Sarsaparilla is to purify and regenerate this vital fluid, without which sound health is impossible in contaminated constitutions.
